

Triand Overview

Triand is a user friendly way to transfer student transcripts between schools, districts and colleges.

Triand introduces social networking for public education. Designed with collaboration functionality, teachers can help other teachers, schools can help other schools, and districts can help other districts.

We recommend using the most up-to-date version of your preferred web browser for greatest functionality.

Upon logging into Triand, you will notice that the interface is divided into two sections – (1) the navigation bar and (2) the main working area.

The screenshot displays the Triand web interface. A red box labeled '1' highlights the navigation bar at the top, which includes the Triand logo, a search bar with the text 'jane (example) doe', and a 'log out' button. Below the search bar is a secondary navigation menu with links for 'welcome', 'profile', 'uploads', and 'account'. The main content area is divided into two sections, with a red box labeled '2' highlighting the left-hand side. This section contains 'People You Might Know' with profiles for Jolene Sanders (Counselor), Ronnie Simmons (High School Science Teacher), and Brian Ratliff (Principal), each with a 'Make a Friend' button. Below this is a 'Messages' section with a 'Post a message' button and the text 'No current messages'. The right-hand side of the main area is titled 'What's Happening On Triand' and features a list of recent activity, including users like Sarah Cox, Ginger Ulmer, Brenda Martin, B. J. Lewis, Kristen Novotny, Oleta King, and others, with their recent actions and timestamps.
